

FIND THE RIGHT RPO SOLUTION FOR YOU

Learn about our various recruitment solutions and how to find the right program structure for your unique hiring needs.

What is Recruitment Process Outsourcing?

Recruitment Process Outsourcing (RPO) is a fast-growing strategy where an employer augments all or part of its recruitment processes to a workforce solutions provider. An RPO provider deploys their own staff to deliver recruiting and technology solutions that improve outcomes and reduce fixed costs.

END TO END

RPO providers manage the entire recruitment process for requisitions.

PIPELINING

RPO providers focus on the talent pipeline, delivering a shortlist of best-fit candidates for each position.

PROJECT

RPO providers can be engaged for a defined period and for specific recruitment needs.

What Makes Eastridge RPO Different?

Eastridge RPO goes beyond filling positions by providing total talent management strategies designed to achieve specific business outcomes. From sourcing and screening to full-cycle recruiting, our RPO solution streamlines your recruitment processes, improves the quality of hires, and enhances the candidate experience.

Long Term

Our RPO solution improves your recruitment processes over time to maximize efficiency and simplify operations.

Partnership

Eastridge acts as an extension of your talent acquisition team, managing all steps of the recruitment process from end to end.

Proactive

Our RPO solution creates a continuous pipeline of talent to engage candidates from, regardless of current openings.

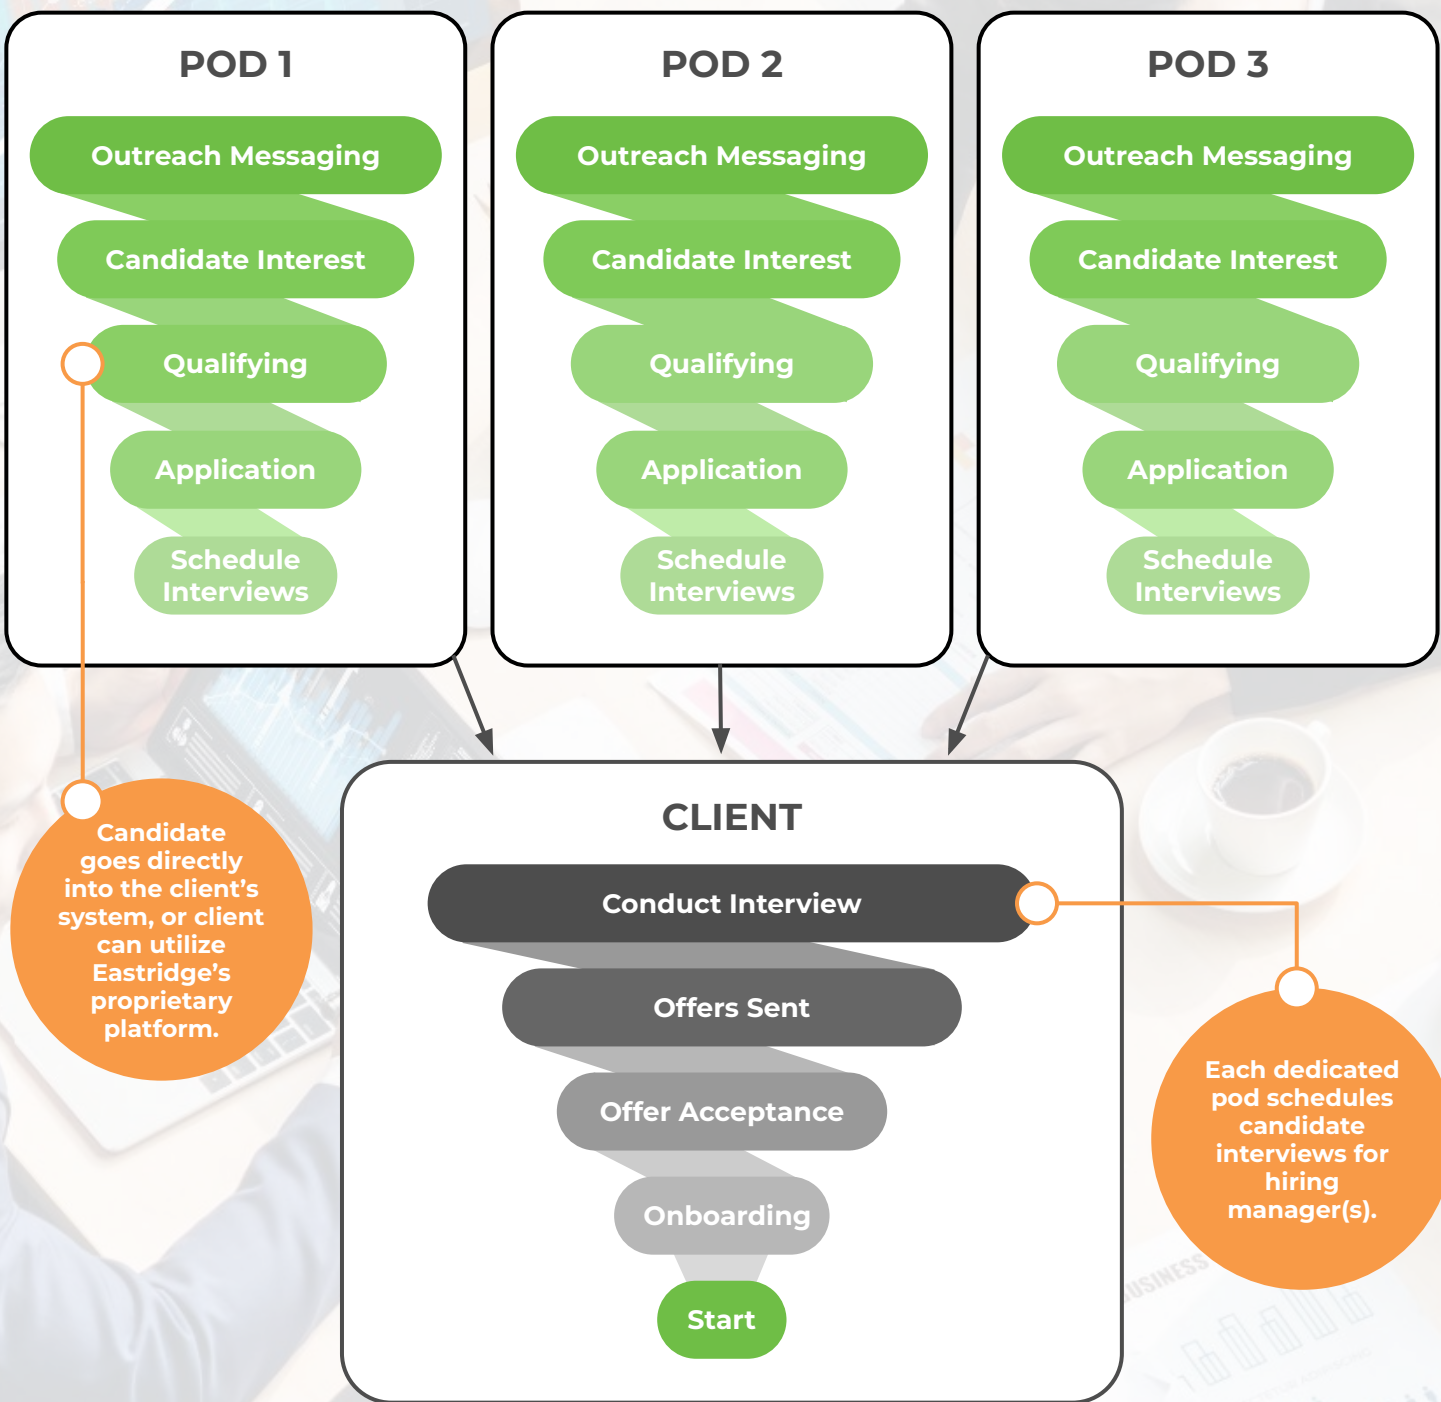

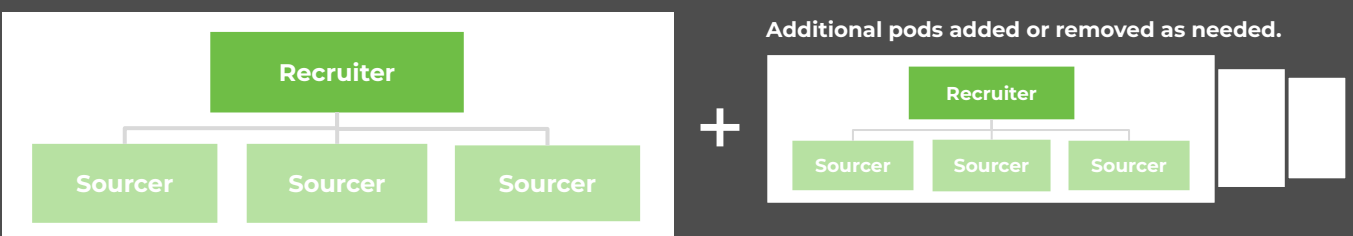

Client-Oriented SLAs

We collaborate with clients to discover their needs and goals, then create tailored service-level agreements to track success.

Eastridge RPO Pods

Unique to Eastridge, RPO pods include one lead recruiter and up to three sourcers who exclusively support each project. The number of pods and sourcers is based on quantity, type, and timeline of the positions and/or project. We customize your pod to your needs.
